Excerpt: . public in another shape, it may not be immaterial here to state that the governor alluded to is an officer of high military rank, and has distinguished himself as a valiant and faithful servant to his King and country, during the late continental war. How far he may stand acquitted of the public charges brought against him whilst acting as a civil governor, it is not consistent with the tenor of the present work to inquire--But the writer may freely express a hope that the result of the investigation has not so far tarnished his name and character as to make his civil appointment a reproach to those who advised it, or a blot on the escutcheon of his military renown. a. 7 XV.AVARICIOUS CLAIMS OF CREDITORS, AND ALLEDGED DERELICTION OF DUTY BY ATTORNIES. The cases in evidence of a delay of justice for want of ability to sue might be amplified to an extent far beyond the bulk of the present publication. But it would be as unwelcome to the reader as to the compiler to enlarge unnecessarily. Several charges of criminal excesses were for a long time under consideration of the Privy Council, the result whereof is not publicly known. The Author has a copy of the charges.-7 r.- The three following shall therefore complete the summary. NORTHUMBERLAND. J. S. has endured a captivity of seven years, and being insolvent, has applied for relief under the act of parliament. He has been opposed and...
